GINETTA THE BRITISH MOTORSPORT COMPANY:

Ginetta is a British sports racing car company founded over 60 years ago. The company was acquired by Le Mans winning entrepreneur, Lawrence Tomlinson in 2005 and has since been transformed under his ownership. Ginetta has grown significantly in recent years to become a formidable Motorsport Group providing racers, drivers and enthusiasts with a comprehensive range of products and services. At Ginetta's core is a racing ladder which provides a race car and championship for every level, from juniors and those looking to start their racing careers, through to more experienced drivers looking to develop, and pro drivers wanting to progress to the highest levels in the sport.

Each series offers a highly competitive and value for money package. Ginetta has one of the most successful and proven driver development programmes in racing, with many famous racing drivers coming through the Ginetta system, such as Britain's F1 star, Lando Norris. Drivers being trained benefit from Ginetta's own dedicated in house SIM (SIM Track) and race track, Blyton Park, as well as 1:1 tuition from Ginetta LMP1 works drivers.

A key division of the Ginetta Group, is Want2race, the leading premium track day and driving experience company in the UK. Want2race provide over 30 track days a year on the best circuits in the UK and Europe to drive your own car, or can provide an arrive-and-drive package in purpose built race cars. Want2Race also offers customers a turn key service of vehicle storage, preparation, transport as well as driver training all on one site.

Ginetta continues to design and develop world beating race car technology at its HQ near Leeds. This performance engineering is directly shared across all race cars and series including the new GT Academy car which has been designed by the same team as the Ginetta LMP1 car. With the majority of British sports car companies now owned by overseas investors, above all Ginetta remains proudly British, with a down to earth family ethos.

We invite you to join us on the GT Academy grid in 2021. To discuss further please contact us by email sales@ginetta.com or call 0113 385 4160
